PROVINCIAL EXHIBITION

The Opening Ceremonies—Address by the Hon. John Robson.

Who Endorses The Times' views on the Import Question.

After the judge had made the awards at the request of the president and directors the Honorable John Robson, on the afternoon of Thursday formally opened the exhibition. Before declaring it open he made a few appropriate remarks. He expressed himself as disappointed with the exhibition for the display made was not such as the resources of the country demanded. The cereals, roots and vegetables, considering the very dry summer we had passed through, were very good. He thought it a great mistake that the farmers had not come out in greater strength, and to have brought with them the best of what they had. This was the only way to make our show a success. These exhibitions were intended as an incentive to our farmers to greater emulation in their calling. Many of our leading and most respected farmers were not represented at all. If they neglected to come forward the show must fail. He then briefly referred to the enormous drain upon the country's resources in sending away yearly a sum of over $500,000 for animals and bread stuffs that should be raised within ourselves. The country would be vastly the gainer if this drain could be stopped, and he sincerely hoped, now that attention had been directed to the matter, that our farmers and others would duly consider the matter. We are now about to enter, said he, upon a new era in our existence—the railway era—and we must bring ourselves up to a higher standard of excellence if we expected to compete with the industries of the provinces and territories lying to the east of us. Farmers ought to improve their stock, and manufacturers should perfect their appliances so that the opening of the great commercial highway would open a door to increased and permanent prosperity.

THE INSIDE DISPLAY

was rather attractive, in consequence of the variety of goods on exhibition. The building, however, could have been rendered much more so had there been greater attention given to the horticultural department. In this respect it was far behind the most ordinary petty township show in the older provinces. Hereafter this commendable feature in these recurring exhibitions should not be neglected, for in no other country can such a magnificent display in horticulture be made as in this province.

THE LADIES' WORK

embraced a wide range in fancy and plain needle work. Some of the articles exhibited were good while others were very indifferent. This may be largely due to the fact that the prize list for this year named articles and styles that have been in vogue for many years, and have long since been discarded in other exhibitions; while the modern class of work, such as Kensington painting, crasene, chenille and ribbon work, of which there were several fine specimens on exhibition, was entirely ignored. In this division it is to be hoped a revision of the classes will take place before the next prize list is published. In many classes there was no competition, and those exhibiting had matters entirely their own way, while many handsome articles were exhibited, for which there was no classification, and consequently no prizes were awarded, although really deserving of the highest honors.

IN THE FINE ARTS.

For some unaccountable reason no prizes were awarded for oil paintings, of which there were several excellently well executed specimens on exhibition, by Mrs. Cloverdale Watson, Miss Maria McColl, Messrs. Paramore and S. Maclure, all of which were greatly admired and deserve recognition by the association. In water colors, crayons and pencilings, Mrs. Cloverdale Watson, Mrs. Perrin, Miss Annie Davidson and Mr. S. Maclure were awarded prizes for work exhibited by them. The specimens in these classes were much admired by Sir Chas. Tupper and his party. Sir Charles suggested to Mr. Jessup the advisability of procuring copies of native art to be forwarded to London with the British Columbia exhibits. It is understood that Mr. Jessup will endeavor to procure a collection of the works of several of our provincial artists, which will be forwarded to London free of charge, in safe condition, placed in the best possible position, and sold, if thought advisable by the authors. This part of the Canadian exhibits will be under the control and management of Mr. Douglas Brymner, a talented Toronto artist.

In the manufacturing line the principal exhibitors in wood were the Royal City Planing Mills, of which is the manager. Here we found handsomely turned newel posts, in native maple, alder, cedar and fir; stair and rail banisters in all our native woods; brackets and cornices, scroll work for houses and verandahs; tops for gate posts; panel work; elegant inside, outside and side entrance doors; panel and rolling blinds; slat and venetian blinds, and 198 samples of mouldings; centre pieces in wood; window and door sash and frames; a bunch of shingles cut from cedar so smooth that one would ever they had been planed. The same firm also exhibited a couple of Douglas fir boards 46 inches wide and of very fine texture, the grain being almost as close as white pine; also centrepoles, brackets and rings, and a miniature chair sawn out of a solid block by a scroll saw. Mr. Hendry explained to Sir Charles Tupper and party the good effects which could be secured from our native woods, and interested the visitors. Sir Charles instructed Mr. Jessup to forward a similar collection to London.

DOUGLAS & DEIGHTON

make a good showing in harness and saddlery. They exhibit stock saddles, side saddles, whitman, single and double buggy harness, heavy harness, bridles, blankets and other articles, all of their own manufacture. The firm are noted for the excellence of their manufactures, and that reputation is well sustained by the exhibit referred to. Samples of their work are going to London.

THE BELMONT TANNING AND MANUFACTURING COMPANY

made an exceedingly fine display of boots and shoes. Their samples of sole leather would be hard to excell, the quality being good as could be made in thickness. They also exhibit harness and russet leathers for saddlery work, upper, calf, kip, grain and lace leather. In gent's and youths, ladies and misses' boots, shoes, gaiters, slippers, &c., they display 57 different styles. One of the tanned hides in their department weighed 120 pounds. The animal was raised by Mr. Gilmour, at Goldstream.

Mr. Rousseau, of New Westminster, also makes a display of tanned hides.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

The entries in fresh, table and tub butter were numerous, and much interest manifested in the awards. The prizes in this class were all carried off by the mainlanders. The samples on exhibition were highly creditable to the ladies, under whose superintendence so choice an article was manufactured. When such butter can be produced within ourselves there is no reason why our market should not be supplied with our own make of butter which is fully equal to the imported article. Messrs. Shaw and Herman carried off the red ticket for cheese and Mr. A. C. Wells the second.

VEGETABLES AND FIELD PRODUCE.

The display in the cool and vegetable line was really excellent; yet it is asserted that on previous occasions much finer specimens were to be observed in mangolds, carrots, turnips and potatoes. Messrs. Steves & Son, O. D. Swete, Wells, Kipp, Kirkland, Ryder, Greyelle, McAdams, Webb, Bovill, Dickinson, Rolling & Son and Mrs. Hodgson were the principal exhibitors in this division. This department and the grain proved of special attraction to Sir Charles Tupper, who took much interest in the mammoth roots before him. The grain was not up to the usual standard in number of entries, but the quality was pronounced to be good. In addition to the above named exhibitors there were Messrs. Whyte, Bretherton, Leahy, Lumburry, Simpson, McNeeley and others. Mr. R. Kipp carried off the sweepstakes for the best display of grain; H. Webb taking second place, and T. McNeeley and John Kirkland for roots, etc.

THE FRUIT SECTION.

This section was very well represented by Messrs. Kipp, Greyelle, Wells, Webb, Kirkland, Thompson, Homer, Mrs. Wise and Mrs. Rousseau, whose display of apples, pears, peaches berries and preserved fruits was excellent. It is unfortunate, however, that exhibitors fail to name and correctly classify their fruit and equally regretable that judges cannot distinguish between a table and a cooking apple, thereby giving great dissatisfaction in their decisions.

MISCELLANEOUS.

In this class is embraced a vast variety of articles. The oatmeal and flour of Messrs. Brackman & Kerr were awarded all the prizes. Mr. D. F. Adams, Craigflower, also exhibited oatmeal and split peas, very good samples each. A New Westminster firm exhibited a couple sacks of chopped feed. Mr. Trapp had four handsome and neatly arranged wire flower stands, made by a couple of young men in the Royal City, after working hours, on exhibition.

MR. R. T. WILLIAMS'

The display of book-binding, paper ruling, rubber stamp goods, electrotypes &c., by Mr. R. T. Williams, of this city, was much admired, and attracted considerable attention. The workmanship on all the articles on exhibition was of the highest order. Mr. Williams is in the van of enterprise, for now he has introduced another branch to his previously extensive business, that of electrotyping, of which business he is the pioneer in this province.

EXHIBITION NOTES.

Messrs. Gregg & Son of this city were awarded the red tickets for their display of gents clothing, which was an excellent sample of what they can accomplish in their particular line of business.

The experiment of raising tobacco has been tried by Mr. A. C. Wells, of Chilliwhack. The sample grown by him this year was pronounced an excellent one. He is about to engage on a more extensive scale on the culture of this valuable plant.

The Richmond Cannery Company—Messrs. J. H. Todd & Son—of this city, were awarded the red ticket for their famous horse shoe brand.

Mr. T. W. Fletcher had a couple of the famous light running Domestic sewing machines on exhibition, as well as elegant samples of work executed on these machines, which for range of work, ease of motion, simplicity and durability are pronounced to be inferior to none and superior to a vast majority of machines claiming many advantages.

The specimens of plain and ornamental needle work exhibited by Mrs. J. A. Laidlaw, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Armstrong, Miss McCandless, Mrs. Douglas, Miss Webster, Mrs. Wells, Miss Howey, Mrs. Beecher, Miss Clarke, Mrs. Leiser, Mrs. Hodgson, and others were creditable to the ladies. THE TIMES begs to suggest that in this division, in future all articles exhibited should be new and not having previously taken prizes, and the handiwork of the exhibitor. Garments that have been worn for years and then exhibited and receive a prize, because there is no competition in that class is a feature that cannot be commended.

Judges should be on hand prompt at the appointed hour, make their awards and give exhibitors their cards, so soon as their decision is arrived. In this respect there was room for improvement this year. In many instances successful exhibitors did not receive their cards till within a few minutes of the closing of the show.

Ample accommodation was given visitors to New Westminster, while the magnificent facilities for transportation supplied by Captain Irving, manager of the C. P. N. Company is worthy of special notice, and the thanks of both exhibitors and visitors.

Aiding Ireland.

Special to THE TIMES.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct 6.—Rev. Father Cronin and James Mooney, of this city, who are among those named by the meeting last night in New York, to proceed to Ireland for the purpose of assisting in the parliamentary canvass, express their disapproval of such course. They agree with Alexander Sullivan that the Irish people need funds, not orators, and that they favor a policy of aiding Ireland in a direct way, where she is poor.

Mr. Burbridge, Deputy Minister of Justice, leaves to-day (Tuesday) for England, to take part in the argument of the Liquor License Act case before the Privy Council.

Sufferers from the effects of quinine used as a remedy for chills and fever, will appreciate Ayer's Ague Cure, a powerful tonic bitter, composed wholly of vegetable substances, without a particle of any noxious drug. Its action is peculiar, prompt, and powerful, breaking up the chill, curing the fever, and expelling the poison from the system, yet leaving no harmful or unpleasant effect upon the patient.

LANSDOWNE

COMING WESTWARD.

ARRIVAL AT KAMLOOPS.

He is Presented with an Address by the Inhabitants.

Special to THE TIMES.

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 6, 1885.

The Governor-General and suite arrived at Kamloops yesterday by the Peerless, which, by arrangement, took him on board at Schichanoos Narrows, so as to give him an opportunity of enjoying the beautiful scenery along the chain of lakes stretching between the Narrows and Savona.

Shortly after his arrival the following address, which had been approved of at a public meeting held at the Court House a few evenings ago, was presented by Mr. Mara, who had been selected for the purpose by the meeting:

To His Excellency the Most Honorable Henry Charles Keith Petty-Fitzmaurice, Marquis of Lansdowne, &c., Governor-General of Canada and Vice-Admiral of the same, &c.:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY:

On behalf of the inhabitants of the town and neighborhood of Kamloops, we respectfully tender to Your Excellency a most cordial welcome on the occasion of this your first visit to British Columbia.

We would earnestly congratulate Your Excellency on being the first Governor-General of British North America who has been enabled to cross this continent through British territory by means of a now nearly completed continuous line of railway; and Your Excellency, we feel confident, will rejoice with us at the prospect of through communication by rail being established between the Atlantic and Pacific, within a few days at the farthest.

Without enumerating the many benefits which the Canadian Pacific Railway is certain to confer on the Dominion at large, we cannot help observing that its completion will give immediate practical effect to the theory of confederation as applicable to the several provinces and extensive territories, over which Your Excellency happily presides.

We would conclude by an earnest and respectful expression of hope that at no distant period we may be honored by Your Excellency with another visit, and that in that event we may be afforded the privilege of also extending a personal welcome to your illustrious consort.

His Excellency made a suitable reply, and thanked those present for their address, evidently well pleased with the hearty manner in which he had been received. The party left here for Moody.

On the 3rd, Sir Charles Tupper and party passed through Kamloops, at 4 p. m., eastward.

[We like the address as it is free from the not unusual defect of fulsome flattery, while it is eminently respectful, concise and appropriate in sentiment.—Ed.]

AT PORT MOODY.

A special from Port Moody states that the vice-regal party arrived at that place at a few minutes after 10 o'clock this morning. A couple of addresses were presented to His Excellency at 10:30 to which he made appropriate replies.

At 11:30 the Douglas steamed down the Inlet for Victoria. Owing to the stage of the tide the party will not reach this port till between 9 and 10 o'clock this evening.

STILL LATER.

PORT MOODY, Oct. 6.—His Excellency the Governor-General arrived at 10:30 a. m. by special train from Yale and was received by a large number of our people and citizens of New Westminster. An address of welcome was read by Col. J. T. Scott, on behalf of the Port Moody people, and also an address by Mr. S. J. Wade, on behalf of the Odd Fellows, to which His Excellency replied in a happy manner, congratulating the people on the near completion of the Canadian Pacific railroad, which is to connect the two great oceans by iron bands on Her Majesty's dominions, and the magnificent scenery of British Columbia, and her unrivalled climate and resources. The band from New Westminster did much to enliven the occasion, and flags were flying to the breeze from the public building, lending attraction to the scene. The vice regal party left for Victoria by steamer Sir James Douglas at 11:35 a. m.

Cardinal McCloskey Dying.

Special to THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—The following bulletin was issued from Cardinal McCloskey's residence to-day by the clergy in charge of his Eminence. The Cardinal has had for over two days a change in his condition, which renders him very weak and apparently in great danger of death, so much so that it was considered prudent to administer to him the last sacrament. Rev. Thos. G. Preston, Chancellor and Vicar General of the diocese, administered the last rites to his Eminence. In conversation with a Reporter this morning Father Preston said the Cardinal was a little bit brighter, and while very low and weak was quite cheerful. His condition, however, leaves us little hope. His advanced years and the suffering for some time past, together with a severe cold recently contracted by him, have had a tendency to hasten his end. He has lived a long life of usefulness, and his reputation as an ecclesiastic is world-wide. Of course in the event of his death the office of Cardinal will not be vacant long, because his grace the Archbishop Corcoran is Coadjutor Bishop, with the right of succession, and he would become cardinal immediately without the necessity of confirmation by the authorities in Rome. The circular has been issued by the cathedral functionaries to all the churches in the diocese, asking for the prayers of the faithful for his Eminence while there is hope, and we can only await God's will. Dr. Keyes, the Cardinal's physician, was seen to-day. He says, "I have not seen his eminence this morning, but I cannot find out any hope of his rallying, his disease being a gradual failing of his powers from extreme old age, no remedy or anything else. He may linger for some days yet."

ACROSS THE OCEAN.

The Irish Question.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Times commenting on Parnell's speech at Wicklow to-day, says, the cabinet, which meet to-day, must consider the situation in Ireland. It is impossible to disguise the fact that the government of Ireland has passed, or is rapidly passing out of the hands of Her Majesty's Ministry. The latter must defend their policy of abandoning the bill for the renewal of the Coercion Act. Parnell's demand for home rule is only a preliminary to the further efforts to the complete separation of Ireland from Great Britain.

The French Crisis.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Times' correspondent says: Owing to the number of cabinet ministers defeated at the elections on Sunday last for seats in the Chambers of Deputies, it will be necessary for the cabinet to be remodelled or resign from office before the Chambers meet. If the Radicals ally themselves with the members of the right they can overthrow the ministry. After the ministry leaving, France would be in a permanent crisis, which would seriously jeopardize the existence of the Republic.

The Cabinet in Session.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Cabinet met to-day and discussed the Bulgarian question and Alexandria. Salisbury indicated to the other Cabinet officials the line of argument he would take in the address which he is to deliver to-morrow at the National Conservative Conference, to be held at Newport.

Bismarck Thanks the Pope.

Special to THE TIMES.

BERLIN, Oct. 6.—The report published on the 3rd inst. that Germany and Spain had effected a settlement of the Caroline difficulty, is confirmed to day. Prince Bismarck has written a friendly letter to the Pope, thanking him in the name of Germany for the interest his holiness has taken in the question. The agreement will be officially announced within a day or two.

The French Election.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 6.—The Republique Francaise, in an editorial to-day on the results of the elections, says: Over one-third of the members of the Chambers of Deputies are Conservatives. This is a serious evil. It then implores Republicans to unite on candidates in districts where second ballots are necessary, and preserve the integrity of the republic.

The Powers to Solve the Question.

Special to THE TIMES.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 6.—The report of the ambassadors to the powers on the Roumelian difficulty indicates that the tenor of the communication to be addressed to Turkey and Bulgaria will prevent a conflict, leaving to the powers the duty of solving the question.

GENERAL DESPATCHES.

One of the World's Greatest Wars.

Special to THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—General Low Wallace, ex-Minister to Turkey, in an interview in regard to the Balkan difficulty, said: I don't think any action will be taken by Turkey until the signatory powers meet. The Sultan has too much common sense to rush headlong into war. He will await the issue of the conference, and in case of disagreement between the powers, probably the whole of Europe will be swept into hostilities, Russia, France and Italy on one side, and England and Austria on the other. Germany, guided by Bismarck, will endeavor to act as mediator. Austria would immediately take possession of Bosnia and Herzegovina; Bismarck would occupy Bulgaria and Roumelia. The conference is most likely to result in a statu quo. One of the world's greatest wars will happen before the Crescent disappears from the Bosphorus.

Baring Train Robbery.

Special to THE TIMES.

ALTOONA, Pa., Oct. 6.—As the regular train from Hollidaysburg was nearing Allegheny furnace this morning, four men took possession of one of the crowded cars, and while it was intimidated the passengers with revolvers the fourth went through the car and deliberately robbed each of the occupants as he chose to select. One of the passengers offered resistance, but he was attacked with a knife and cut through the hand. The conductor next grappled with one of the robbers and was dragged out to the platform of the car and beaten with a revolver handle. The robbers then pulled the bell rope and jumped off escaping to the woods. The Pennsylvania Railway company has sent out officers in all directions.

An Important Suit.

Special to THE TIMES.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Oct. 6.—The opinion of Judge Jackson Temple, in the celebrated case of Mrs. Ellen Cotton vs. the Central Pacific Railroad, was filed this morning. Judgment is ordered for defendants.

A retired Sergeant of the English army hated Hymn, an ensign for Winning, and wearing the Victoria cross and two medals for secret service, died suddenly of heart disease on board the steamship Parisian on Friday evening last, and was buried at sea while the steamer was but six miles off Gaspe on Saturday morning.

Mr. Spurgeon has not yet the confidence faithfully, according to dimensions, and her health and spirits are now restored. The latter is all gone from that face. I wish every sufferer could but know what a blessing Ayer's Sarsaparilla is in such cases.

Toronto's assessment has given your amounts to $72,721,850; or an increase of about $4,000,000 over last year.

SIR CHARLES TUPPER AT NEW WESTMINSTER.

At one time it was feared that SIR CHARLES TUPPER and the gentlemen accompanying him would give New Westminster and the provincial show the go-by. Up to a late hour on Tuesday evening it was the intention of SIR CHARLES to visit the exhibition and come in contact with the people gathered there. His movements, however, depended on despatches expected from Ottawa. Not receiving these, he was obliged to remain a day longer in this city. Communications subsequently passed between that gentleman and the officials of the agricultural association relative to his putting in an appearance if only for an hour. HON. JOHN ROBSON sent urgent dispatches to the premier, as did also MR. JOHN JESSUP, the Dominion immigration agent, MR. ZED S. HALL, of New Westminster, an old and respected friend of SIR CHARLES, and others, until a consent was drawn from him to land at Coal Harbor from the Alexander and drive across to the Royal City and hence to Port Moody. Arrangements were made by HON. JOHN ROBSON and MR. JESSUP to convey the party to the city, where they arrived shortly after 8 o'clock, fully an hour earlier than anticipated. The HON. MR. SMITHE and HON. J. W. TRUTCH were with the party. No time was lost in visiting the exhibition. SIR CHARLES was accompanied by MR. JESSUP, who pointed out to the distinguished gentleman the various articles exhibited and from him received suggestions as to quality to be sent to London with the grain, roots and vegetables. The High Commissioner expressed himself as pleased beyond anticipation. After exchanging a few ideas with those in the building the President, on behalf of the association, presented SIR CHARLES with the following address. At the annual meeting the previous evening it was decided not to present an address, as the time would necessarily be too limited. However MR. KIRKLAND prepared an address in case of emergency, and by doing so drew from SIR CHARLES an excellent reply:

To the Hon. Sir Charles Tupper, K. C. M. G., C. B., Canadian High Commissioner, etc;

SIR:—The officers of the British Columbia Agricultural Association desire to present you a hearty welcome to this province, and their annual exhibition. They have great pleasure in congratulating you upon the new honors you have received since your last visit to the Pacific province, and upon the near completion of the great transcontinental railway with which your name will always stand so closely identified. The completion of this new avenue of commerce, they believe, will tend to cement more closely the widely separated settlements of the western dominion, and to promote the prosperity of the entire country. The society regrets that other engagements prevented you from being present at the opening of the exhibition, but it is hoped that an examination of the exhibits before you will enable you to form an opinion as to the capacities of this far province, notwithstanding the fact that the past season has been one of extraordinary drought, and that here, until very recently, little attention has been given to agriculture. We are looking forward, however, with confidence to an era of increased activity upon the opening of our railway, as a result of increased population and new facilities for reaching markets hitherto inaccessible to us. The directors hope your visit may be personally a pleasure to you, and that its principal object—the promotion of the great colonial exhibition in London—may be entirely successful.

JNO. KIRKLAND, President.
W. D. FERRIS, Secretary.

In his reply SIR CHARLES began by thanking the president and officers for their kind invitation and welcome to their exhibition, which to him was an interesting one. None regretted more than did he the circumstances that prevented him spending Thursday in the city, as he had first arranged; but short as his visit had been, he had seen enough to show him how great and varied were the resources of this province. The object of his visit, they knew, was to promote the great Indian and Colonial exhibition in London, 1886.

He had visited the several provinces of the Dominion and everywhere had received the most cordial assurance of the respectives efforts to make the Canadian exhibit worthy of our country. He was greatly pleased to be able again to visit the people of New Westminster. When he had the pleasure of visiting this city four years ago he had expressed the opinion that by the year 1891 this province would have railway connection with the other parts of Canada. To-day we were able to congratulate ourselves and the country upon the fact that the great transcontinental railway would be completed certainly before the end of the present month, six years before the time predicted by him. He believed the world did not afford another example of a work in which so many difficulties were encountered that was accomplished with such marvellous rapidity. It was likewise a rare occurrence to find a contract completed nearly six years in advance of the stipulated time. He was sitting, as Tuesday recently when SIR EDWARD SMITHE said he had been struck, in visiting America, with the great enterprise displayed by the people of the United States as compared with Canadians. Replying to that remark he (SIR CHARLES) pointed out that when forty millions of people in the United States had built a railway from Chicago to San Francisco it was regarded as a wonderful achievement, but five millions of Canadians had accomplished a much greater work in a much shorter time. He felt sure the progress he now saw in British Columbia since he visited it four years ago was utterly insignificant in comparison with the progress of the four years to come. The completion of the railway connection with other parts of Canada would place this province in a position to secure the rapid development of its immense resources. He believed the mineral wealth brought to light by the construction of the railway would alone be sufficient to pay the whole cost of the road. East of the mountains, and in the mountains valuable beds of lignite bituminous and anthracite coal had been discovered. In this province that most valuable of all minerals, coal, was found of a superior quality, and associated with that were iron mines second to none in the world in richness. With the great Northwest lying behind, the conjunction of these two minerals would place this province in a position of the first importance with a view of manufacturing industries. Then there was the climate, which was unexcelled anywhere. When people in England objected to Canada as a place for emigration, he always had great pleasure in referring them to the unequalled climate of British Columbia. He had visited many parts of the world, but if he wished to enjoy the finest climate he had ever seen he would choose to make his home in British Columbia. Here also there were unequalled facilities for the growth and development of the finest qualities of fruits. He had made arrangements to have samples of these fruits preserved with salicylic acid so as to show the exact form and appearance of them at London next year, and also some samples of the magnificent vegetables the province so liberally produces. He hoped also to receive from this province before the exhibition closed next fall some samples of fresh fruit and vegetables, so that the people in London might ascertain the flavor of them as well as admire their beauty. In this he hoped to receive assistance from the people of British Columbia. In no other way could they so surely be promoting their own interests.

With its fish, its minerals, its timber, its agricultural productions, and its magnificent climate, it would be strange if the eyes of the world were not drawn to the resources and attractions of this province; and if the people of England could look into the intelligent faces of the people of British Columbia, as he was now looking, they would know that this country was bound to take a high position of honor and influence. He would do his best to promote the interests of British Columbia. The provincial government had generously offered to provide a complete exhibit of both the resources and educational system of the province, and it would be a pleasure for him to speak well of the province. God had given us a country second to none in the world, and he was always proud to be identified with its progress. In conclusion he expressed the hope to be able to visit the province at another period, and then witness even greater signs of prosperity than he had observed since his last visit.

At the close of his speech, which was listened to with marked attention by the assemblage, three rousing cheers were given for him. SIR CHARLES then took his departure for the Colonial hotel, where a large number of Nova Scotians assembled to greet him, as well as MR. TOWNSHEND, MR. ZED. S. HALL acting in the capacity of introducer. For a few moments an agreeable time was spent here by SIR CHARLES' party prior to taking their departure for Port Moody, where an impromptu reception was accorded them. Both SIR CHARLES TUPPER and MR. ANDREW ROBERTSON expressed surprise and pleasure at the progress made at the government terminus since their visit of four days ago. It was announced, semi-officially, that an iron dock was to be constructed by the government at Port Moody, and that every facility was to be given shippers to utilize and take advantage of the facilities provided for shipping purposes. HON. MR. TRUTCH accompanied the party eastwards over the Canadian Pacific Railway to meet the vice-regal party.

HON. MR. CHAPLEAU left Paris on Saturday last, and was expected to return to Canada on the 3rd inst.

IT is barely possible that the so-called new star may be the flames which are destroying a distant planet. Almost twenty years ago astronomers observed a tremendous outburst of gaseous matter in the Hercules Gamma—a vivid lightning and then a fading away and extinction—and they concluded that a world had been blown up by excess of hydrogen gas. What if the new star in the nebula of Andromeda is the passing away of a world in an agony of flame?

THE attempt to mob and horsewhip MR. SHEPPARD, of the Toronto News at the close of the DOUGLAS SHEPPARD trial, was an outrage on the good name of Montreal. It can have no other effect than to produce a most injurious impression in Toronto, and many other parts of the Dominion. The Montreal newspapers agree in stating that the offenders were "respectfully dressed" and that there was nothing of the "rough" elements about the crowd. The police of that city arrested, insulted and humiliated the man whose life was threatened and who attempted to defend himself, while the assailant went free

THE BEST

Hair restorative in the world is HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It cures all diseases of the scalp, and stimulates the hair glands to healthful action. It stops the falling of the hair; prevents its turning gray; cures baldness, and restores youthful color and freshness of appearance to heads already white with age. The following are a few illustrations of what is done by

Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER:

☞ MRS. HENNESSEY, 344 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., after a severe attack of Erysipelas in the head, found her hair—already gray—falling off so rapidly that she soon became quite bald. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER brought it back as soft, brown and thick as when she was a girl.

☞ MR. KESLING, an old farmer, near Warsaw, Ind., had scarcely any hair left, and what little there was of it had become nearly white. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER stopped its falling out, and gave him a thick, luxuriant head of hair, as brown and fresh as he ever had.

☞ MRS. A. T. WALL, Grinefield; Cheshire, Eng., writes: "I have found the greatest benefit from the use of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, in having restored my hair, which was rapidly falling off, and returned its original color."

☞ DR. EMIL SEIP, Detroit, Mich., certifies that "HALL'S HAIR RENEWER is excellent for hair growing, and gives back the natural color to faded and gray hair."

☞ MRS. S. E. ELLIOTT, Glenville, W. Va., says: "One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER restored my hair to its natural, youthful color."

No injurious substances enter into the composition of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, and it is not a dye. Its vegetable ingredients render it in the highest degree beneficial to the scalp as a preventive of the race. Its effects are natural and lasting, and it does not make the hair dry and brashy, like the so-called restoratives compounded with alcohol.

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS

Is, in four respects, superior to all others.

1st—It will produce a rich, natural color, brown or black, as desired.

2d—The color so produced is permanent, cannot be washed off, and will not soil anything with which it comes in contact.

3d—It is a single preparation, and more convenient of application than any other hair or whisker dye.

4th—It contains no deleterious ingredients, as do many preparations offered for like use.

CHAPTER V.

AS A BROTHER.

Arnold immediately began to use the privilege accorded to him with a large and liberal interpretation. If, he argued, a man is to be treated as a brother, there should be the immediate concession of the exchange of Christian names, and he should be allowed to call as often as he pleases. Naturally he began by trying to read the secret of a life self-contained, so dull, and yet so happy, so strange to his experience.

"Is Lala, Iris," he asked, "all your life? Is there nothing more?"

"No," she said; "I think you have seen all. In the morning I have my correspondence; in the afternoon I do my sewing. I play a little, I read, or I walk, sometimes by myself, and sometimes with Lala Roy; in the evening I play again, or I read again, or I work at the mathematics, while my grandfather and Lala Roy have their chess. We used to go to the theatre sometimes, but of late my grandfather has not gone. At ten we go to bed. That is all my life."

"But, Iris, have you no friends at all, and no relations? Are there no girls of your own age who come to see you?"

"No, not one; I have a cousin, but he is not a good man at all. His father and mother are in Australia. When he comes here, which is very seldom, my grandfather falls ill only with thinking about him and looking at him. But I have no other relations, because, you see, I do not know who my father's people were."

"Then," said Arnold, "you may be content in your own right; you may have any number of rich people and nice people for your cousins. Do you not sometimes think of that?"

"No," said Iris; "I never think about things impossible."

"If I were you, I should go about the streets, and walk round the picture galleries looking for a face like your own. There cannot be many. Let me draw your face, Iris, and then we will send it to the governor, and label it, 'Wanted, this young lady's cousins.' You must have cousins, if you could only find them out."

"I suppose I must. But what if they should turn out to be rough and disagreeable people?"

"Your cousins could not be disagreeable, Iris," said Arnold.

She shook her head.

"One thing I should like," she replied. "It would be to find that my cousins, if I have any, are clever people—astronomers, mathematicians, great philosophers, and writers. But what nonsense it is to even talk of such things; I am quite alone, except for my grandfather and Lala Roy."

"And they are old," murmured Arnold.

"Do not look at me with such pity," said the girl. "I am very happy. I have my own occupation. I am independent; I have me work to fill my mind, and I have these two old gentlemen to care for and think of. They have taken so much care of me that I ought to think of nothing else but their comfort; and then there are the bookdown stairs—thousands of beautiful old books always within my reach."

"But you must have some companion, if only to talk and walk with."

"Why, the books are my companions, and then Lala Roy goes for walks with me; that is for talking. I think it is much more pleasant to think."

"Where do you walk?"

"There is Battersea Park; there are the squares; and, if you take an omnibus, there are the Gardens and Hyde Park."

"But never alone, Iris!"

"Oh, yes, I am often alone. Why not?"

"I suppose," said Arnold, shirking the question, because this is a civilized country, and, in fact, why not? I suppose that it is your work which keeps you from feeling life dull and monotonous."

"No life," she said, looking as wise as Newton, if Newton was ever young and handsome—"no life can be dull when one is thinking about mathematics all day. Do you study mathematics?"

"No; I was at Oxford, you know."

"Then perhaps you prefer metaphysics? Though Lala Roy says that the true metaphysics, which he has tried to teach me, can only be reached by the Hindoo intellect."

"No, indeed; I have never read any metaphysics whatever. I have only got the English intellect."

This he said with intent satirical, but Iris failed to understand it so, and thought it was meant for a commendable humility.

"Physical science, perhaps?"

"No, Iris. Philosophy, mathematics, physics, metaphysics, or science of any kind have I never learned, except only the science of heraldry, which you have taught me, with a few other things."

"Oh!" She wondered how a man could exist at all without learning these things. "Not any science at all! How can any one live without some science?"

"I know very well," he said, "that as soon as I was found out I should be despised."

"Oh, no, not despised. But it seems such a pity—"

"There is another kind of life, Iris, which you do not know. You must let me teach you. It is the life of Art. If you would only condescend to show the least curiosity about me, Iris, I would try to show you something of the art life."

"How can I show curiosity about you, Arnold? I feel none."

"So; that is just the thing which shames me. I have felt the most lively curiosity about you, and I have asked you thousands of impertinent questions."

"Not impertinent, Arnold. If you want to ask any more, pray do. I dare say you cannot understand my simple life."

"And you ask me nothing at all about myself. It isn't fair, Iris."

"Why should I? I know you already."

"You know nothing at all about me."

"Oh, yes, I know you very well indeed. I know you before you come here. You showed me yourself in your letters. You are exactly like the portrait I drew of you. I never thought, for instance, that you were an old gentleman, as you thought me."

He laughed. It was a new thing to see Iris using, even gently, the dainty weapons of satire.

"But you do not know what I am, or what is my profession, or anything at all about me."

"No. I do not care to know. All that is not part of yourself. It is outside you."

"And because you thought you knew me from those letters, you suffer me to come here and be your disciple still! Yet you were a man of honor. I trusted you, Arnold, before I saw your face, because I knew your soul."

"Trust me still, Iris," he said in rather a husky voice.

"Of course I did not know, and never thought, what sort of a man you were to look at. Yet I ought to have known that you were handsome. I should have guessed that from the very tone of your letters. A hunchback or a cripple could not have written in so light-hearted a strain, and I should have discovered, if I had thought of such a thing, that you were very well satisfied with your personal appearance. Young men should always be that, at least, if only to give them confidence."

HINTS TO DOCTORS,

ESPECIALLY TO YOUNG MEMBERS OF THE PROFESSION.

Requisites for a Successful Practitioner—The Medical Man's Great Art—The Mixtures and the Ladies—Avoid Patients' Society.

[Brooklyn Eagle.]

Do not be persuaded by foolish friends to plant yourself in any new quarter of the city. All new colonies are fatal to early enterprise, the first settlers only clear the way for those who follow, and are regularly ruined for the benefit of posterity. When you have taken a house and put your brass plate on the door, you cannot do better than go abroad for four or five years. At your return you will probably find that no one has inquired for you, which must be very consolatory to your feelings, inasmuch as it will show you have lost nothing by your absence, and have yet given the world time to begin to ascertain there is such a person in existence as yourself. Having familiarized people with your name it behooves you then to give it notoriety; therefore lose no time in getting into print. You cannot lay out a couple of hundred dollars to better advantage than publishing a pamphlet on any popular medical subject. A treatise on indigestion has gained many a physician a sumptuous dinner. Mott, Francis, Buck, furnish excellent examples of that sort of alchemy which transmits a grievous dyspepsia to a groaning table. "So many dishes," says Seneca, "so many disorders," but vice versa with the doctors, so many disorders, so many dishes.

The great majority of mankind are fools—that large portion you are to live by; therefore mystify your patients. When you talk to them, let it be in a long Cambyses vein. The ears of the million are easily captivated; when once their senses are confounded, they have naturally a religious reverence for anything they do not understand. In brief, in all your dealings with men, remember you have to do with folks who, according to the Latin proverb, "have all at some time been insane." Never give a direct answer to a patient's question, never commit yourself by entering into explanation with the friends. To the sick man you cannot put too few questions, to the relatives you can never give too few replies.

The great art of a physician is to gain the confidence of the patient, and for that purpose his first object should be to inspire him with hope. It is not a hesitating manner or a melancholy mien which is calculated to raise the drooping spirits of the sick; it is not a hangman's look or a mute's demeanor that is likely to lend the physiognomy of the physician the character of a messenger of glad tidings, who comes with healing on his wings and the gift of health in his right hand. It is not the timid eye, the pressionte tread, the felicitous tongue, the fearful voice or the foolish simper of servile acquiescence with the opinions of the friends or the prejudices of the attendants of the sick, which are at all favorable to the production of that faith which can remove diseases which have been mountains to mere medicine.

Never refuse a fee from any person who is able to give one, in order that you may never have occasion to take one from a man who is too poor to well afford one. It matters not how mercenary you may be accounted by the rich, so long as you are merciful to the poor. If you can not get fees without depriving them of bread, it were better you had never been a doctor. Your friends nor your familiars have any claim on your skill, whatever they may have on your affection. If they are entitled to your gratuitous attendance a large connection would be a great evil to a physician. Were you a merchant they would not ask your goods without an equivalent, and surely because you are a man of science they cannot expect the still more precious chattels of the mind without any compensation.

To obtain practice be sure to enlist the service on your side of the pastors of all denominations in your neighborhood, and pay your court assiduously to the influential women, but above all, if in the country, to the one or two charitable ladies, par excellence, who are to be found in every town, devoting a life of single blessedness and all the leisure of neglected beauty and imperishable celibacy to the service of religion and humanity. Be sure that you buy golden opinions of these good women, for with all their active benevolence they have a large portion of their leisure to bestow on the privacy of their friends and neighbors, and heaven defend the reputation of that poor wretch who, at the terrible Areopagus of the tea table, is consigned to the tender mercies of their envenomed tongues.

Avoid the society of your patients. Physicians should have no familiars; to be thoroughly respected, they must stand aloof from the gaze of society. A prophet has no power in his own country, neither has a physician in his own circle. Without salt it is impossible to become a flourishing physician, but without good manners all the skill of the most eminent physicians will not avail you in a large capital. A good address is everything to a doctor. The public are incapable of judging of a medical man's real knowledge; the only way they have of forming an opinion, therefore, is by analogy, by scrutinizing those superficial qualities and the outward and visible signs of them, which come immediately within the narrow sphere of their comprehension. If his manners be good, they give his mind credit for the advantage.

The last and greatest precept of all is: Never violate in thought, word or deed the sanctity of the sick chamber. He is a villain who reveals the secrets of that prison house, where pure humanity lies bare and helpless; he is a traitor to his profession who gossips about the infirmities he is called to relieve; he is unworthy the name of a physician who, during the hour of visitation, forgets that he is a man. Many families have numerous people with your name; it behooves you then to give it notoriety; therefore lose no time in getting into print. You cannot lay out a couple of hundred dollars to better advantage than publishing a pamphlet on any popular medical subject. A treatise on indigestion has gained many a physician a sumptuous dinner. Mott, Francis, Buck, furnish excellent examples of that sort of alchemy which transmutes

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always pressed to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble by not sending such for THE TIMES, as they will be rejected.

Our space is valuable, and brevity, as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

CITY AND PROVINCE.

—There was no police court to-day.

—A few prominent gentlemen in this city propose forming a golf club.

—Before purchasing Real Estate or insuring your life, see Rand Bros.

—Cards have been issued for an "At Home" at Government House for Wednesday evening by Mrs. Cornwall.

—The Barbara Boscowitz, which was to have sailed for the north at 10 a. m. to-day, will leave to-night.

—Three Chinamen by the Olympian to-day produced their certificates and were allowed to land.

—Information is wanted by the friends of James Lobb, as to his whereabouts. When last heard of he was at Comox.

—A birth took place on board the Yosemite to-day on the way down from New Westminster.

—The U. S. Consulate will not be open for business to-morrow (Wednesday) on account of the general observances, except from 10 to 12 o'clock a. m.

—Wilf S. Smith, who called on Monday and subscribed for THE WEEKLY TIMES, please call again, or send his address to this office?

—The steamer Kootenai, which stranded on a rock in the Columbia on the 4th ult., is again making her trips as regularly as formerly. She sustained very little damage.

—The chairs have arrived for the theatre and are being put in their places. They are very complete, having hat rack, umbrella rack and foot rest attached to them.

—The Winnipeg papers report the arrival of train loads of men who have been working on railroad construction in the mountains. Evidently as many are going east as are coming down to this coast.

THE DOMINION.

News Items Gathered from all Sources.

Mr. John A. Mackenzie, of Sarnia, has been appointed junior judge of Lambton county.

Mr. J. Norman Ritchie, Q. C., has been appointed to succeed Hon. Mr. Thompson as Judge of the Supreme Court in Nova Scotia.

Big Bear has been sentenced by Judge Richardson to three years in the penitentiary. Two-by-Two and others of Big Bear's band got two years. Five Crees, who forcibly entered a house north of Broadview and stole a horse, colt and several oxen from Mr. Wiseman, received three years.

A young couple who stayed at Cedar Park Hotel, Niagara Falls, on Friday went away, leaving behind them an unpaid bill and a baby.

According to the returns of the city assessors the population of Toronto has increased 7324 within the year, being now one hundred and twelve thousand, and with the suburbs added fully ten thousand more.

The grand jury at St. Thomas returned a true bill against Havelock Smith, charged with the murder of Marshal Piggott, of Malahide, in November, 1884. His Lordship then postponed the court until November 24th, for the trial of Smith.

A private dispatch was received in Quebec on the 27th ult., announcing the accidental drowning at Rimouski of Mr. John Quinn, fourth son of the late Mr. Edward Quinn, lumber merchant of this city, and nephew of the late Wm. Quinn, Supervisor of Cutters.

SIMILKAMEEN MINES.

The Reports Still Favorable—A Rich District.

Mr. J. F. Allison, J. P., and Gold Commissioner for the Similkameen country, arrived in the city to-day. He brought down about $5,000 in gold dust, and carries a neat little pocket piece of five ounces taken from a claim on the Similkameen by a Chinaman. The Chinese, unfortunately, are monopolizing the country, and many of the very best claims have already passed into the hands of these people. The mines are "panning out" well and there is no decrease in the yield and no weakening on the part of the miners. To show what can be done by steady persistent effort, it is reported by one Chinaman that a friend of his who had spent a number of years in that district, had recently departed for the land of flowers with $12,000, entirely the proceeds of his mining ventures. And all the time that he was laying up this treasure, he reported that he was only making "four bittee" a day, and the white miners, judging by his appearance, thought that he was only succeeding in keeping body and soul (if they have one) together. Mr. Allison has unbounded faith in Similkameen country, and if the white miners of the province will only go in and possess the land, there is an El Dorado to be developed that will yield fortunes for many, and as a matter of course disappointments for not a few. It is a very wide district containing innumerable creeks that have never yet been prospected. [illegible] and intelligent work will accomplish wonders, and if that class of workers only go in next spring, the coming season will witness a mining boom, only a trifle less exciting and important in its results than the famous palmy days of Cariboo.

NEARING THE END.

The Gap in the Canadian Pacific Steadily Growing Shorter.

The very latest advices from both ends of the track show that the most difficult parts of the work have been completed. About the first of the present month the Inland Sentinel announced that the gap was then only fifty-six miles, and information received to-day is to the effect that the distance has since then been reduced about one half, and that the unlaid portion is in a condition for the reception of the iron. Unless decidedly unpropitious weather is experienced, or some other unforseen circumstance should arise to delay operations, the grand consummation of the greatest undertaking in which Canada has ever engaged, will have been finally achieved. What a few years ago was considered the dream of a visionary, will, in a few more days, be an accomplished fact. People are no longer surprised at the extraordinary progress of events and the marvellous developments in the arenas of science or commerce, so they are looking with greater indifference on the completion of the transcontinental line than would have been deemed possible a few years ago, when its practicability was still among the uncertainties of the future. We can scarcely realize what has been accomplished; how much more difficult to predict, or imagine, the effect that it will have on our nation as a whole, or the transformations that it is certain to work through the length and breadth of our own fair province.

ROYAL HOSPITAL.

An Institution Deserving of the Liberal Support of the Public.

The Royal Hospital is a very necessary institution and ought to receive a little more attention from the public generally. At present there are forty-three patients in it, 27 in the hospital, 5 in the fever ward, and 11 in the convalescent home, while there is only accommodation for 22 in the hospital, 4 in the fever ward and 11 in the convalescent home. It is therefore overcrowded and the steward has had to use the linen room, in which he has put two beds. Many have been refused admittance lately, on account of this lack of accommodation, which is not very creditable to the citizens, especially those who can spare it, but it is to be hoped, that this has been through ignorance of the real state of affairs, and that it only requires being made known to them to insure an increase of patronage. Mr. Jamieson, the steward, is a wholesouled, genial man, and is a general favorite with the patients, who meet with every attention at his hands. He round, plump, beaming countenance is always enough in itself to make anybody well. He is a hard worker, and takes a great interest in the institution, and feels keenly when he has to send any poor wanderer away. As the city grows this institution ought to grow with it, and increased accommodation provided with increase of population. "With-hold not good from them to whom it is due, when it is in the power of thine hand to do it."

"BULL-DOG" KELLY.

The Kootenay Murderer—Proceedings for His Extradition.

Edward Kelly, charged with the murder of Baird, in British Columbia, was brought to St. Vincent, Minn., on the 28th ult., from Crookston, for trial for extradition before United States Commissioner Ives. After formal evidence and objections were disposed of, Manuel Durnard was called. He testified that he was in company with Baird and Henry Meyers on the 27th of November last, was traveling from Johnston's ranch on the Kootenay trail, 24 miles south of Golden City. When about three miles had been traveled and he was in advance of the parties he heard a shot, and looking back saw Baird stagger and fall from his horse. He saw a second shot fired at Meyers, who was in the rear, which missed. Another shot was fired at Meyers after dismounting. This wounded Meyers in the leg. Durnard saw the man who committed the murder rise from his ambush, and identified the prisoner Kelly as the man. Several other witnesses have to be examined, and the case will rest for some time. Great interest is taken in the case at St. Vincent.

"Scaring the English Navy."

An ignorant fool writes to Chief Crowley, of San Francisco, in explanation of the late proposed attempt to fasten a torpedo on H. M. S. Constance. His letter reads:

"SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26, 1885.

Chief Police, S. F.: You will find that the dynamite scare on H. M. S. Constance was a huge joke perpetrated by the writer. For proof of this compare this writing and this paper with original letter to commander of H. M. S. Constance. I only wanted to scare the Britishers, dawn't ye know! They did not find an infernal machine, and they had no reason to suspect one. I wrote this letter and told them (just for a joke) that there had been a torpedo attached to their keel. The Blarsted, Bloody Hinglishers were Badly Scared, and there is where the joke comes in. The idea of an anonymous letter scaring the English Navy! ANONYMOUS.

The Prisoner Jordan.

Mrs. Jordan, mother of the prisoner Jordan, for whose release a petition will be presented to the Governor-General, on his arrival in this city, has called at this office and authorized us to give positive contradiction to the statement contained in a letter signed "Ottawa" in this morning's Colonist. The unfortunate man Jordan was not, his mother says, ever in gaol at Ottawa or any other place, save New Westminster on a charge of manslaughter. He served with distinction in the English army in Burmah and the Crimea, receiving three medals for meritorious services in the field. A scalp wound, received in the service of his country on the battle field, has been the source of some trouble, and at times affected the man's intellect, but it is said on his behalf that he has completely recovered from its ill effects. The aged mother does not ask that "mercy should be strained," but that while justice is done, no wrong will be committed by tempering it with mercy.

The Colorado Capitol.

The completion of the State Capitol of Colorado—in which some of our local architects were interested—has resulted in the choice of a design by Mr. E. E. Myers, of Detroit, who is also the architect of the Texas State Capitol, now in process of construction, and also of the Capitol of Idaho, at Boise City. The designs placed next in order were by Messrs. F. E. Edbrooke, of Denver, and of Mr. Herman B. Seeley. Bids are to be invited at once for the execution of Mr. Myer's design, and if the cost is to exceed one million dollars his plan will be laid aside. Mr. Edbrooke's will then be put to the same test. The previously published report that a Victoria architect's plans had been accepted was of course an error, as the above is authentic.

Shorthorns.

By the Olympian of to-day, the thoroughbred pedigreed calf "Alsion," from Dr. Tolmie's small, but choice herd of shorthorns, was shipped for Edward Huggins, Esq., Pierce County, W. T.

The Yosemite.

The Yosemite arrived from the mainland this morning at 11:30 o'clock, an unusually early hour. She brought about one hundred and fifty passengers, the large majority of whom are discharged employees from the railway. The freight list was a long one, and comprised the following: Van Volkenburgh, 122 sheep; S Clay, 208 sacks of oats; Mr. Lawson, 30 bales of hay; R. Ward & Co., 707 cases of salmon, and a large quantity of miscellaneous stuff. The salmon were unloaded direct into the Prince Rupert, and the steamer ran along side for that purpose.

Everything Ready.

The streets and buildings along the route of the procession for to-morrow are gaily decorated and present a very pleasing appearance. It is to be hoped the weather will prove favorable for the occasion. Everything is now ready to accord His Excellency a right royal and loyal reception in Canada's metropolis on the Pacific coast.

Base Ball.

A match game of base ball will take place to-morrow, at 2 p. m., between the Amities and a picked nine. The battery for the picked nine will consist of Messrs Damon and Keuney, of the Seattle Reds. A good game is expected.

The Patterson by-law, carried at Woodstock, Ont., by a vote of 609 to 50, the Messrs. Patterson will take their entire business there from Patterson next year, and will erect buildings to give employment to two or three hundred men.

Mr. Page, Chief Engineer of Canals, is engaged in preparing plans for the proposed enlargement of the Welland canal.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Saloon Closing.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—I am glad to find that my communication that some two months since appeared in your columns upon the above subject, having the signature of "Red Ribbon," in which I pointed out how wrong it was that saloons should be allowed to keep open all night, has apparently brought forth fruit, inasmuch as the City Council are going to take the matter under consideration at their next meeting, with the view to limit the hours of closing to 11 or 12. The proposed limits to be enforced, in face of the addition that will be made to the population a our city of doubtful character during the approaching winter, will not come one moment too soon. All thanks are due to Councillor McKillican for taking the matter in hand, as well as to the DAILY TIMES for having previously ventilated the subject. RED RIBBON.

Government Officials in Private Business.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR:—If the newspaper reports are correct it seems that Mr. Irving, from the Attorney-General's office, conducted a preliminary investigation before the City Magistrate on Monday last, the case of Pau Tuck Ten, charged with stealing a cheque. Taxpayers are becoming a little impatient at the frequent interference in private business of salaried provincial officers. It does appear strange that Mr. Irving, receiving a provincial salary of $2000 per annum, should not devote his time to the duties of his office, instead of engaging in private practice, such as Police Court work, debt-collecting, and reporting for the Law Society.
